

Hi! My name is Kathy. I'm from Alaska, and I'm a product manager in San Francisco. I believe all great products are a result of effort that starts with a conversation. I've taken products from early prototypes to launch day consistently for the past 10 years. Through my successes (and failures) I've developed a philosophy \(/philosophy\) about the path we take to make products that shine. My process thrives on the delicate dance between data driven design, business goals, and user feedback. I've worked with a lot of great people through the years. Now I'm looking for a new team to build interesting things. Say hi \(/contact\)    .